Meeting April 10, 2012

Golden Future is an outreach project aimed at improving the lives of youth and vulnerable communities in Cape Town, South Africa. The project is entering its fourth year and looking to expand and collaborate with other institutions. Golden Future will allow participants to build strong leadership skills & set a global example of social responsibility, humanitarianism, and positive change. Students will have the opportunity of volunteering at a local high school in the settlement of Khayelitsha, and if interested, also the chance to shadow medical students and doctors at a mobile clinic in this community.

Student volunteers prepare materials and develop lesson plans for various health awareness, life skills, educational, and micro-entrepreneurial workshops. These workshops engage students in valuable discussions and create insight into some of the challenges faced within their communities. These challenges include raising HIV and AIDS awareness, fostering life skills, building micro-enterprise initiatives, assisting with educational inquiries and empowering youth. These workshops are implemented through interactive physical activities, intellectual discussions, training sessions and mentoring.
